S10. Ans. (b)

Sol. 2-4: “start-growth” should replace each other in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually correct. Hence, option (b) is the right answer choice.

S11. Ans. (e)

Sol. All (i), (ii), and (iii) starters can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences, implying the same meaning as expressed in the statement sentences. The sentences thus formed are:

(i) As a matter of fact that political opposition without a foundational ideological basis cannot be the answer, the party should reflect deeply on its character and strategy as an alternative to the current government.

(ii) Since political opposition without a foundational ideological basis cannot be the answer, the party should reflect deeply on its character and strategy as an alternative to the current government.

(iii) Provided that political opposition without a foundational ideological basis cannot be the answer, the party should reflect deeply on its character and strategy as an alternative to the current government.

S12. Ans. (b)

Sol. Both (i) and (ii) starters can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences, implying the same meaning as expressed in the statement sentences. The sentences thus formed are:

(i): Peppered with unconstitutionality, the classification of countries and communities in the CAB is constitutionally suspected.

(ii): Having the classification of the countries and communities constitutionally suspected, the proposed CAB is peppered with unconstitutionality.

S13. Ans. (d)

Sol. Both (i) and (iii) starters can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences, implying the same meaning as expressed in the statement sentences. The sentences thus formed are:

(i): Being a key centre to Indian Economy, the political stability in Bangalore has a larger import for the country.

(iii): Not only the Bangalore is the key centre to Indian Economy, but the political stability there also has a larger import for the country.

S14. Ans. (d)

Sol. The sentences framed with (i) and (ii) starters are as below:

(i) Given that Pakistan Army and terrorists are desperate to disrupt peace in J&K, searches on the trek routes and the highways are going on.

(ii) Because of the desperation of Pakistan Army and terrorists to disrupt peace in J&K, searches on the trek routes and the highways are going on.

Hence, option (d) is correct answer choice.

S15. Ans. (b)

Sol. Both (i) and (ii) starters can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences, implying the same meaning as expressed in the statement sentences. The sentences thus formed are:

(i): Relying routinely on correlation, Epidemiologists and public health professionals draw countrywide estimates of the health risk posed by a particular pollutant.

(ii): In order to draw countrywide estimates of the health risk posed by a particular pollutant Epidemiologists and public health routinely rely on correlation.
