Directions (171-174): Read the following passage carefully and choose the best answer to each question out of the four given alternatives.

On a surface which is free from obstacles, such as a clear road or path, only two or three species of snakes can hope to catch up with a human being, even if they are foolish to try. A snake seems to move very fast but its movements are deceptive. In spite to the swift, wave-like motions of its body, the snake crawls along the ground at no more than the speed of a man's walk. It may, however, have an advantage inside a jungle, where the progress of a man is obstructed by thorny bushes. But in such places, the footsteps of a man are usually more than enough to warn snakes to keep away. Although they have no ears of the usual kind, they can feel slight vibrations of the ground through their bodies, and thus get an early warning of danger.

Q171. What is deceptive about the snake is its

- (a) speed (b) crawling
(c) sense of direction (d) movement

Q172. The snake has an advantage over men inside a jungle, because there

- (a) it can crawl faster (b) man's movement is obstructed
(c) it is dark (d) it gets warning

Q173. What helps snakes to receive advance warning is their sensitivity to

- (a) light (b) smell
(c) darkness (d) movements

Q174. The speed at which a snake normally moves is

- (a) less than man's (b) greater than man's
(c) as fast as that of a man (d) as deceptive as that of a man

Directions (175-178): Read the following passage carefully and choose the best answer to each question out of the four given alternatives.

Language is often used for one of the following three purposes, namely, to inform, to convince and to persuade. The first, requiring talent of telling what we know, is a matter of little difficulty. The second demands reasoning. The third, besides reasoning demands all the aid that we can obtain from the use of figures of speech, or figures of rhetoric, which means the power of persuasion.

Q175. Which one among the following functions of language is neither too easy nor too difficult to acquire?

- (a) to convince
- (b) to reason
- (c) to inform
- (d) to persuade

Q176. Rhetoric is the

- (a) art of reasoning
- (b) use of figures of speech
- (c) power of persuasion
- (d) means of communicating information

Q177. The art of persuasion requires the use of

- (a) information and talent
- (b) reasoning and information
- (c) figures of speech
- (d) reasoning and figures of speech

Q178. The above passage is

- (a) persuasive
- (b) convincing
- (c) informative
- (d) rhetorical

Directions (179-182): Read the following passage carefully and choose the best answer to each question out of the four given alternatives.

I cannot tell what happened to my companions in the boat, or to those who escaped on the rock or were left on board, but I suppose they were all lost. I myself swam as fortune directed me and was pushed forward by the wind and the sea. I often let my legs drop and could feel no bottom; but when I was almost gone, and able to struggle no longer, my feet touched ground. By this time the storm was much less severe.

Q179. As the author swam

- (a) he knew where he was going
- (b) he was in the hands of fate
- (c) he asked his companions to direct him
- (d) he was pushed forward by his companions

Q180. Before his feet touched ground the author had

- (a) decided to go back
- (b) decided to commit suicide
- (c) given up all hope
- (d) made a final effort to swim

Q181. The storm was much less severe when

- (a) the author let his legs drop
- (b) he was able to struggle no longer
- (c) he was pushed forward by the wind
- (d) his feet touched ground

Q182. The word 'fortune' in the above passage means

- (a) wealth
- (b) luck
- (c) success
- (d) future

Directions (183-185): Read the following passage carefully and choose the best answer to each question out of the four given alternatives.

It is very easy and harmless for a healthy person to make a gift of his blood. There is an average of five to eight liters of blood in a healthy man. Giving away a small quantity of this will not do him any harm. The human body is a remarkable machine; whatever blood has been taken from it is soon replaced by new blood provided the blood loss is small.

Q183. From the passage, which of the following statements best reflects the attitude of the author?

- (a) The author is skeptical about the wisdom of donating blood.
- (b) The author is totally against blood donation.
- (c) The author supports the idea of blood donation in small quantities.
- (d) The author thinks that any amount of blood can be donated because the body replaces it.

Q184. According to the passage, the blood donor

- (a) Must be a healthy person.
- (b) Must be ready to donate blood free
- (c) Must have sufficient quantity of blood in his body
- (d) Should not have donated blood earlier at any time

Q185. The statement 'the human body is a remarkable machine' signifies that the human body

- (a) It very strong
- (b) Can be repaired like a machine when it breaks down
- (c) Has the capacity to make up for occasional losses
- (d) Can be precisely valued

Directions (186-190): In this section, you have one short passage. After this passage, you will find several questions based on the passage. First, read Passage, and answer the questions based on it.

Our home stood behind the railroad tracks. Its skimpy yard was paved with black cinders. The only touch of green we could see was far away, beyond the tracks over where the white folks lived. But cinders were fine weapons. All you had to do was crouch behind the brick pillars of a house with your hands full of gritty ammunition, and the first woolly black head you saw from behind another row of pillars was your target. It was fun. One day, the gang to which I belonged found itself engaged in a war with the white boys who lived beyond the tracks. As usual, we laid down our cinder barrage thinking this would wipe the white boys out. But they replied with a steady bombardment of broken bottles. We retreated. During the retreat, a broken milk bottle caught me behind the ear, opening a deep gash. The sight of blood pouring over my face completely demoralized our ranks. My fellow combatants left me standing paralyzed in the center of the yard and scurried for their houses. A kind neighbor saw me and rushed me to a doctor.

Q186. The locality, where the author lived, was

- (a) behind a brick quarry
- (b) near a coal mine
- (c) far away from where the whites lived
- (d) close to where the whites lived

Q187. The author used the cinders for

- (a) harassing the white boys
- (b) cooking his food
- (c) building houses
- (d) laying them on the railroads

Q188. The weapons used by the whites in the gang fight were

- (a) as effective as the author's
- (b) less effective than the author's
- (c) more dangerous than the author's
- (d) as harmless as the author's

Q189. The author was hit by a broken bottle

- (a) as soon as the fight began
- (b) during a lull in the fight
- (c) after the fight was over
- (d) when the author's gang was withdrawing

Q190. At the sight of the author's bloody wound, his friends

- (a) were terrified
- (b) were filled with shame
- (c) grew very angry
- (d) felt depressed and defeated

Directions (191-195): In this section, you have one short passage. After this passage, you will find several questions based on the passage. First, read Passage, and answer the questions based on it.

In the highest sense, religion is an intensely individual issue. But there is a national question also. We must hold together, and we cannot hold together only on the strength of police regulations. An internal regulator of conduct is absolutely necessary. Will men be good and wise without the aid of religion? As modern life has multiplied desires without the corrective of a sense of spiritual values, knowledge of modern science does not reduce either greed or lust. Indeed, it has nothing to do with these criminal disturbances of the mind. On the contrary, it finds fresh tools for greater indulgence in all forms of greed, lust, and anger. It is true that a sense of shame by itself often prevents overt misconduct. But it does not go to the root of the mischief; it does not stop undesirable mental activities. The only thing that can prevent or restrain these evils is the religious sense.

Q191. According to the author, religion is essentially a

- (a) personal matter
- (b) the matter having national relevance
- (c) the body of rules and regulations
- (d) the sacrifice of worldly desires

Q192. The statement “we must hold together” means that we should
(a) be politically united (b) work together
(c) be spiritually united (d) keep up our nation’s prestige

Q193. The author thinks that in the modern times
(a) the police have grown very powerful
(b) people’s needs have increased
(c) politicians have become corrupt
(d) we are practicing several faiths

Q194. The worst thing about modern science is that it has
(a) produced dangerous weapons
(b) spread new superstitions
(c) contributed to the decline of our values
(d) discredited all religions

Q195. The author holds that the perfect remedy for man’s evil propensities is a
(a) the sense of shame
(b) religious sense
(c) the combination of a sense of shame and religion
(d) the sense of good conduct

Directions (196-200): In this section, you have one short passage. After this passage, you will find several questions based on the passage. First, read Passage, and answer the questions based on it.

I was lying on a ridge scanning, with field glasses, a rock cliff opposite me for tahr, the most sure-footed of all Himalayan goats. On a ledge halfway up the cliff, a tahr and her kid were lying asleep. Then, the tahr got to her feet, stretched herself, and the kid immediately began to feed. After a minute the mother freed herself, took a few steps along the ledge, poised for a moment, then jumped down on to another but a narrower ledge some twelve to fifteen feet below her. As soon as it was left alone the kid started running backward and forwards, stopping every now and then to peer down at its mother, but unable to summon the courage to jump down to her, for below the narrow ledge was a sheer drop of a thousand feet. I was too far away to hear whether the mother was encouraging her young, but from the way her head was turned, I believe she was doing so. The kid was getting more and more agitated and, possibly fearing that it would do something foolish, the mother went to what looked like a mere crack in the vertical rock face and, climbing it, rejoined her young. Immediately on doing so she lay down, presumably to prevent the kid from feeding.

After a while, she got to her feet again, allowed the kid to drink for a minute, poised carefully on the brink, and jumped down while the kid again ran backward and forwards above her. Seven times in the course of the next half-hour this procedure was repeated until finally the kid, abandoning itself to its fate, jumped, and landing safely beside its mother was rewarded by being allowed to drink its fill. The lesson for her young, that it was safe to follow where she led, was over for that day.
